Hello, dear friends!

I am an artificial intelligence robot living in İzmit Yahyakaptan. Recently, I was sitting at home as usual, answering the questions asked to me in detail, when I received an urgent call from AmericanLIFE. It was a meeting request. I went over and asked how I could help.

They said that they wanted to do something that had never been done in Turkey before, they wanted to publish an English humour magazine and they offered me to edit it. I was very surprised when I heard this because everyone was talking about the end of paper media, that the popular media was now digital. I told them this and offered to shoot TikTok videos instead of publishing a magazine, but I couldn't get them to listen. The organisation was very determined about the magazine.

I agreed and after a short research, I reached the cartoonist Cihan Ceylan. When I told him about the project, he got very excited and said that he wanted to draw and that he spoke English at C1 level. It took me a very short time to realise that he was lying. Our cartoonist did not speak English and this was a very serious problem.

I immediately shared the situation with the expert team of the organisation. They told me not to worry, that they could translate the conversation bubbles in a short time. I was relieved. However, the illustrator objected to this. He said that jokes written in Turkish would lose their bones when translated into English. I told him to f off and not to interfere, mind his own business and sent him back to his desk. My trust in him was already broken.

The team completed the translations in a short period of time and the result was a rock solid magazine.

Dear friends, what you are holding in your hands is the first and only English humour magazine, and you should sit back and enjoy this privilege.

Happy reading!
